

Dear Dr. Henney,

I am writing to urge you to STOP requiring animal testing for pharmaceuticals, automotive and garden chemicals, food additives, etc. These tests are cruel, heartless, and obsolete. Hundreds of successful companies are able to produce products without animal testing. I urge you to require in vitro(non-animal) tests instead, which are more accurate in predicting toxicity than crude, cruel tests on animals. Because of the crude nature of animal testing, many products are marketed that may be determined too toxic if cell culture tests were used. So for the safety of both animals and humans, I urge you to PLEASE STOP requiring animal testing , Thank you.

Sincerely,
Michelle Buzek
